MESSAGE FROM THE EDITORIAL DESK

As we begin 2023 with new hope, new aura surrounds CDSIMER with a series of significant MoU s with reputed institutions having signed which opens up new horizons for research and development to take wings at CDSIMER. This issue brings with it the events conducted by various departments at CDSIMER from January 2023 to March 2023. To commemorate three wonderful years of CDSIMER we have presented the baby steps we took and important milestones we achieved in these three years. Think Tank section provides a detailed answer to the question posted in previous edition and a crossword puzzle to be solved as food for thought in the current one. Poetry section, the young poetic minds have gracefully translated their thoughts to pleasant poems to refresh and rejuvenate our minds. Some glimpses of our enchanting Campus is presented in the Gallery Section.

Cherish the moments we had at CDSIMER with the current edition of our News Letter. We promise to bring you more in the next!! Write to us at newsletter.cdsimer@dsu.edu.in

WHITE FLOWERS

As I walk across the swamp of white flowers
Surrounded by people unfamiliar.
Intimidated by the humongous towers.
It hits me that my goal still lies unclear.

Around me are people in need,
But I am still inadequate to lend my hand,
Can I be the flower among the weed,
Or am I still too fragile to stand.

I long for love for one embrace,
To heal all the pain inside me,
But is it alright for me to look outside,
Instead of clearing the clutter within me.

In my view I see serenity,
Bees buzzing and the clouds rumbling,
But what is my identity?
Because right now all I hear is people mumbling.

Am I being optimistic,
Or am I being too laid back,
Is it okay for me to dream big,
Or should I only focus on the bag.

All these questions in my head,
Have started squabbling like siblings,
All that are keen to find a way to end,
Like the white flowers that have started wilting.
